

Transition Information September 2026

The transition schedule intends to facilitate a smooth start to the school year for your child. Even if it is not his or her first experience in school, starting a new year in a different classroom with unfamiliar teachers can be stressful for children. Teachers introduce a great deal of information during the first days and children need time to adjust. Having a gradual entry period promotes a relaxed and positive tone in the classroom, encourages the development of secure relationships, and minimizes anxiety that children may experience. Although most children adjust easily, some might experience separation anxiety and can take longer to settle into school. The classroom teachers can help you determine if your child would benefit from a longer transitional period. A detailed schedule about the transition plan for each class is provided below.
